

I do not concur with this petition.

This proposal is an attempt to limit testing to those modes one wishes to operate. Why should one be tested on modulation techniques if one does not desire to operate voice modes?

Why should one be tested on wavelengths or radiation patterns of antennas if one does not desire to construct antennas?

Why should one be tested on knowledge of band limits for VHF, UHF, SHF if one only desires to operate on HF bands?

Why should one be tested on power measurements if one intends to only operate QRP (low power, i.e. 5 watts or less)?

This is a never ending list of items to not test an individual on. It would require a different test for each possible mode of operation available that an Amateur might choose to use.
